

William Blair Mid Cap Growth Fund Fund Manager Commentary

Market Overview

COVID-19 was the dominant force affecting the economy and equities in a volatile year-to-date period.

Late in the first quarter, as it became clear that COVID-19 was becoming a global pandemic, equities declined rapidly due to stay-at-home directives, which effectively shut down many segments of the economy. After bottoming in mid-March, equity returns were robust during the second quarter. This was predominately the result of massive amounts of fiscal and monetary stimulus, coupled with improving COVID-19 trends, optimism regarding vaccine development and progress toward re-opening the economy. The Federal Reserve (Fed) responded quickly and dramatically in an attempt to limit economic damage.

Third quarter advances built on second quarter strength. Continued economic improvement, including positive trends in employment and increases in consumer spending, coupled with incremental progress towards the development of a vaccine, supported the market rise. Market returns were further fueled by a shift in Fed policy to allow flexibility around its inflation target, signaling policymakers' intent to keep the Fed Funds rate low for an extended period. Within the market, there was a pronounced bifurcation between the performance of "COVID beneficiaries" and those disrupted by COVID, as select companies across different sectors saw a strengthening of demand for their products (e.g., ecommerce), while others saw a complete collapse in demand (e.g., travel related), though this divergence began to narrow late in the third quarter.

Amid significant COVID-related business disruption, a focus on 2021 profit potential and a decline in 10-year U.S. Treasury yields allowed valuation multiple expansion to drive many U.S. equity indices in positive territory for the year-to-date period ended September 30, 2020.

Fund Performance

The William Blair Mid Cap Growth Fund (Class N shares) slightly trailed the benchmark during the third quarter due to a combination of style headwinds and stock-specific factors. From a style perspective, our underweight to the most expensive stocks in the benchmark was a headwind, given the strategy's valuation sensitivity. From a stock-specific perspective, selection in Information Technology, including our positions in Pure Storage and WEX, detracted from relative returns. Pure Storage, a flash-based storage solutions provider whose technology replaces storage systems designed for mechanical disks with all-flash systems, lagged as COVID-19 related economic disruption had a negative impact on the company's near-term outlook, specifically its late stage business pipeline in the United States. Weak travel volumes and ongoing concerns around credit losses weighed on shares of WEX, a leading provider of payment solutions to the global fuel card market and online travel agents. Other laggards included Teleflex (Health Care), BWX Technologies (Industrials) and Centene Corp (Health Care). Conversely, our top two contributors during the period were Horizon Therapeutics (Health Care) and Copart (Industrials). Horizon Therapeutics, a specialty biopharmaceutical company, benefitted from continued robust growth of the company's recently launched drug Tepezza, as well as management's significant increase in peak sales guidance for the drug. Copart, an online auction platform for salvage vehicles, benefitted from continued international demand as well as an increase in average selling prices of used vehicles, as they surged to record highs. Other notable contributors included EPAM Systems (Information Technology), CoStar Group (Industrials) and Ball Corp (Materials).

Outlook

Looking forward, though the U.S. economy is recovering and broad market indices are near prior peak levels, uncertainty remains. The upcoming U.S. presidential election is likely to cause volatility to the extent its outcome is not immediately known and as the market digests its implications. Should there be a change in leadership, the market will have to weigh likely changes in tax policy and regulation against the potential for higher levels of fiscal stimulus.

In addition, virus trends heading into colder months are a source of concern for consumers and businesses most impacted by COVID-19 at the same time the benefits of earlier federal aid packages are fading and job growth is slowing. Progress toward the development and rollout of a vaccine and the Fed's commitment to remain accommodative are critical factors in supporting a continued recovery.

Our investment philosophy is built on the belief that future cash flows are the ultimate determinants of long-term value creation and stock performance. We remain focused on identifying companies with superior management, high barriers to entry, differentiated products or services, and the financial flexibility to invest through uncertainty. We seek to construct a portfolio of companies that we believe will emerge from the current period stronger regardless of political outcomes or the duration of the economic recovery.

IMPORTANT DISCLOSURES

The Fund's returns will vary, and you could lose money by investing in the Fund. The Fund invests most of its assets in equity securities of domestic growth companies where the primary risk is that the value of the equity securities it holds might decrease in response to the activities of those companies or market and economic conditions. Individual securities may not perform as expected or a fund used by the Adviser may fail to produce its intended result. The securities of smaller and medium sized companies tend to be more volatile and less liquid than securities of larger companies. In addition, small and medium sized companies may be traded in lower volumes. This can increase volatility and increase the liquidity risk whereby the Fund will not be able to sell the security on short notice at a reasonable price. The Fund is not intended to be a complete investment program. The Fund is designed for long-term investors.

The Russell Midcap Growth Index is an index that is constructed to provide a comprehensive and unbiased barometer of the mid-cap growth market. The Index is unmanaged, does not incur fees or expenses, and cannot be invested in directly.
