

William Blair Small-Mid Cap Growth Fund Fund Manager Commentary

Market Overview

Performance of U.S. equity indices was broadly positive for the year-to-date period ended September 30, 2021. First quarter market performance was supported by improvement in corporate earnings growth, positive economic data, robust job growth and massive stimulus distributed to U.S. households and businesses. Manufacturing activity, gross domestic product (GDP), and job growth continued to increase into the second quarter and corporations reported healthy earnings.

While U.S. equity market performance and economic data were both strong through the first half of 2021, U.S. economic data was mixed in the third quarter, in part due to supply chain disruptions and rising COVID-19 cases. As the Delta variant became the prominent strain across the country, new cases of COVID-19, along with hospitalizations and deaths, increased and peaked in the third quarter. Despite these headwinds, corporate earnings reports continued to exhibit strength.

The U.S. Congress avoided a government shutdown by passing a short-term continuing resolution to suspend the debt limit. The Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) reiterated its commitment to maintain a low target federal funds rate as the economy recovers from COVID-19 disruption. However, coincident with inflationary concerns and the Fed's announcement that it will begin to slow the pace of its asset purchases in the near term, U.S. Treasury yields rose in late September. Against this backdrop and despite healthy corporate earnings, U.S. equity index returns were mixed in the third quarter, with less differentiation between growth and value style indices in the quarter than was observed earlier in the year.

Fund Performance

Third quarter outperformance by the William Blair Small-Mid Cap Growth Fund (Class N shares) was driven by a combination of strong stock selection and style tailwinds. Our top contributors to performance were Builders FirstSource (Industrials) and Pure Storage (Information Technology). Residential building materials company Builders FirstSource benefited from strong volumes, faster growth of higher margin manufactured products and synergies from a recent merger. Pure Storage, a flash-based storage solutions provider, experienced strong demand for its broadening product portfolio, improving margins and a resurgence in on-premise customer spending following a COVID-19 related slowdown. Other strong performing holdings included Information Technology stocks Dynatrace and NICE. Stock selection in Health Care also added value, in part due to our position in Horizon Therapeutics. From a style perspective, our bias toward companies with more consistent business models and higher returns on invested capital, as well as our underweight to the most expensive stocks in the benchmark, were tailwinds. Top detractors from performance were home health services provider Amedisys (Health Care), as labor supply challenges caused the company to slow growth expectations in the near term, and sensor sub-processing subsystem provider Mercury Systems (Industrials), as supply chain disruptions pushed out bookings. Positions in Zynga (Communication Services), Brink's Company (Industrials) and Stem Inc. (Industrials) also detracted from relative returns. Stock specific contributors and detractors for the third quarter are discussed in greater detail at the end of this quarterly review.

Outlook

Looking forward, we believe a continued sense of optimism around U.S. economic potential remains. As the Delta variant wave recedes, consumer confidence and spending are expected to increase, in part due to pent up savings from government stimulus, and job growth and earnings growth are likely to benefit. However, some uncertainty remains as continued vaccine hesitancy among portions of the population may pose a challenge to the U.S. achieving herd immunity. Potential corporate tax increases, elevated input prices and accelerating wage gains may put pressure on corporate profits. Amid tensions between political parties, the U.S. Congress must come to a resolution to raise the debt ceiling in order to avoid the risk of a federal default. While inflationary and supply chain pressures are likely to persist into 2022, labor shortages may ease as government unemployment stimulus abates and the spread of COVID-19 variants moderates.

Our investment philosophy leads us to companies with durable businesses, whose stock prices are not reflective of our long-term fundamental expectations, that we believe can outperform over a market cycle. As we continue to monitor economic developments and navigate through the business model implications of COVID-19 disruption, our focus remains on identifying companies with superior management, high barriers to entry and differentiated products or services that are underappreciated by the market. We believe our longstanding focus on bottom-up identification of durable business franchises, whose stocks present attractive risk/reward opportunities, will serve us well in a variety of economic environments.
